COME ‘HOME’ FOR THE SUMMER
2 LETTER FROM THE EDITOR

University editor Donny Nadeau ’85 reminisces about the days when summer vacation really meant summer vacation. With Homecoming, camps, conventions and construction, there’s still summer, but not much vacation.

3 CAMPUS NEWS

Full-time undergraduates on the Winona Campus have reached a record 1,323. SMU to construct new plaza in memory of those who have died while students. New faces in new places all around campus.

6 CURRICULUM: THE WORLD

When Ron Bosrock and Brother President Louis De’Thomasis put their minds together the result was impressive — the Institute for Global Expansion.

8 THE NEED FOR SPEED

SMU Dean of Students Chris Kendall finds life behind the wheel of a race car the perfect way to relax.

10 VISITING SMU — ONLINE

Did you know you could search for a fellow alum’s e-mail address on the SMU web site? Interested in purchasing some Saint Mary’s memorabilia from the bookstore? You can do that on-line as well.

12 MISS AMERICA PAGEANT 101

Jill Patzner ’98 kept the SMU streak alive this past September. She was the third straight SMU graduate to earn a spot in the Miss America Pageant.

26 THE SPORTS SCENE

The Saint Mary’s men’s soccer team posted an 11-5-1 record to highlight a fall filled with stellar sports moments.

ON THE COVER

All roads lead to Winona, and the Saint Mary’s University campus, where summers are busier than they’ve ever been before.

13 COME ON ‘HOME’

In the past, when the final student packed up his belongings and left Saint Mary’s, the Terrace Heights campus took on the characteristics of an old western ghost town. But with a new-and-improved Homecoming, along with all the camps, conventions and construction going on, things are really hopping during the summer months. Above, members of the Class of ’93 posed for a Homecoming photo last summer.
Taking the ‘vacation’ out of summer vacation

SMU campus doesn’t shut down after graduation

Remember when you were younger and the last day of school would roll around? You’d patiently sit at your desk waiting for the school bell to ring — and once it did, boom, you were out the door. Freedom for three whole months. No spelling tests, no math quizzes — no square dancing in gym class.

In fact, there was a time right here at Saint Mary’s when, after the last diploma was handed out and the final mortarboard was thrown, the Terrace Heights campus became a proverbial ghost town. Faculty and staff locked up their offices and began work on their research projects, or headed for the great outdoors, or the golf course, or the nearest swimming pool — anywhere but the classroom.

Those times, however, have gone the way of the dinosaur.

In fact, when the last students pack up their belongings and head down Highway 14, things are just starting to heat up around here.

In the past, June’s Homecoming was virtually a solo act on the school’s campus. There was still a smattering of activity, but all-in-all, Homecoming was the big draw.

And, while the two-day extravaganza has continued to draw more and more alums back to their alma mater, the event also has a pretty impressive supporting cast keeping SMU staff members on their toes.

Over the past four years, the summers on the Saint Mary’s campus have proven to be as populated with students — albeit the six-to-18-year-old and over-22 variety — as the regular school year.

Whether it’s the more than 2,200 individuals who take part in our hockey, basketball, soccer, volleyball, cheerleading or swimming camps, or the several organizations which use our facilities to hold their meetings and conventions, or the Elderhostels and graduate programs, SMU is bustling with activity during the summer months.

And it’s not just the sounds of people’s voices laughing and conversing that ring out through the halls and conference rooms. The pounding of hammers and the buzzing of saws are also familiar sounds as SMU uses the summer to catch up on all the renovations and building projects around campus.

We’re interested in your thoughts

We want to hear from you, the alumni, parents and friends of Saint Mary’s University. You’re welcome to respond to something you read in University Magazine, or to comment on any subject that involves the past, present or future of the university.

Send letters to University Magazine Editor, Saint Mary’s University, 700 Terrace Heights #36, Winona, MN 55987-1399 or e-mail editor Donny Nadeau at dnadeau@smumn.edu.

As a youngster, you rewarded yourself for learning the three R’s with a three-month summer vacation. At Saint Mary’s, we’ve taken the vacation out of summer vacation and replaced it with the three C’s — camps, conventions and construction.

So, how did you spend your summer vacation? Check out how we spent ours on pages 13-22.

Enjoy! ☺
Saint Mary’s reported a record Winona Campus full-time undergraduate enrollment of 1,323 this fall. That’s an increase of 15 students over last year’s previous record of 1,308. The total includes 394 freshmen, the second-most in SMU history and 5.9 percent more than last year’s 372. In all, 1,451 undergraduates are enrolled on the Winona Campus this fall, including 37 students in the De La Salle Language Institute.

According to Tony Piscitiello ’69, vice president for admission, “We are at full enrollment. This is the result of a strong freshman class as well as continued strong student retention.” Piscitiello added that there has been growth in the number of high school graduates nationally. However, “Our increase in freshmen of nearly 6 percent is double the percentage increase of 1998 high school graduates,” Piscitiello said. “Saint Mary’s is viewed as an excellent Catholic liberal arts and sciences university, and one that is affordable.”

STAFF CHANGES AT IHM SEMINARY

There have been several staffing changes made at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Seminary over the summer. Rev. David Kunz ’76 is the new rector, taking over for Rev. William Becker ’83, who is teaching in the Saint Mary’s theology department this year. Rev. Tom Jennings ’66 is vice rector and dean of students, Rev. Jim Steffes ’87 is spiritual director and Sister Jean Erfeld, SSND is coordinator of liturgy and music.

NEW PLAZA TO KEEP ALIVE MEMORIES OF STUDENTS

Saint Mary’s is preparing a new plaza for the Winona Campus that will memorialize all those who have died throughout the years while enrolled as students. The centerpiece of the Memorial Plaza will be a commissioned sculpture dedicated to the five students who died March 1, 1997 in a car accident.

The project is now in its design stage, with a formal dedication ceremony planned for the morning of Aug. 25, 1999 as a part of the opening of the university’s academic year.

Alumni are encouraged to contact Saint Mary’s with the names of those who died while enrolled as students at SMU, to be included in the memorial. Call Kim Zeiher, director of benefactor relations, at 1-800-635-5987, ext. 1495, or e-mail her (kzeiher@smumn.edu).

GORRELL NAMED DEAN OF PERFORMING ARTS

Larry Gorrell ’74 was named dean of the School of Performing Arts, effective June 1. Gorrell served as acting dean during the last academic year.

Gorrell has a B.A. from Saint Mary’s University and an M.F.A. from Brooklyn College of New York. He has been affiliated with Saint Mary’s in a professional capacity for eight years, most recently as director of the Master of Arts in Administration program.

COMMENCEMENT IN KENYA

Brother Ronald Roggenback (middle, without cap), Saint Mary’s associate dean of education and director of Christ the Teacher Institute of Education took part in the 1998 undergraduate commencement at SMU’s Nairobi Campus.
SMU GETS BANGLADESH GRANT

The American Institute of Bangladesh Studies has awarded Saint Mary’s University a grant that will permit the university to send six undergraduate students and one faculty member to Bangladesh for a study tour of about three weeks during the summer of 1999. Drs. Michael Bowler and William Mangan authored the grant proposal.

JERRIE SEIBERT IS NEW DIRECTOR OF CAMPUS SAFETY

Winona Police Department veteran Jerrie Seibert was named director of campus safety at Saint Mary’s over the summer break. Seibert replaced Todd Mandel, who accepted a similar position at St. Olaf College.

Seibert, 55, retired after 32 years with the Winona Police Department. A lifelong resident of the Winona area, Seibert was hired as a patrolman in 1966, following service with the U.S. Army. In 1969 he was promoted to detective, and in 1982 he was promoted to lieutenant in charge of the investigative division. He subsequently was named deputy chief of police under Chief Frank Pomeroy ’80.

Seibert’s wide range of experience will be useful in his new job of ensuring the safety and security of Saint Mary’s students and buildings. He will supervise four assistant directors and a host of student employees who bolster the staff during the academic year.

UNIVERSITY RELATIONS STAFF CHANGES

Dr. Mary Catherine Fox ’75, vice president for university relations, announces the following staff changes in her department.

Dr. William Mangan has been promoted to associate vice president for university relations from his former position as assistant vice president for academic affairs. His new responsibilities will initially include corporate and foundation relations, grants management, and capital campaign planning.

Rebecca Satka ’75 has been promoted to assistant vice president for university relations. Her portfolio includes alumni relations, national alumni board, annual fund, alumni events and benefactor identification and strategy.

Gary Klein has been promoted to executive director of major gifts. Klein will continue his work with benefactors and the Student Alumni Relations Organization.

Stacey Vanden Heuvel is the new director of gift planning in the development office, and Misha Hogenson has been hired as assistant director of the annual fund. One of her responsibilities will be to run the phonathon program.

Laurel Shoaf is the new director of major gifts, and Tanya McNally is the new administrative assistant for the development office.

Kathy Sula ’80 joined the staff in January as graphic designer, along with Eric Heukeshoven, new web site manager.

Minneapolis Campus renamed and rededicated to reflect expanded facilities, programming and reach

In recognition of its expanded facilities, programming and influence, the Minneapolis Campus of Saint Mary’s University has been rededicated as the Twin Cities Campus. A Nov. 20 ceremony was presided over by Most Reverend Harry Flynn, archbishop of Saint Paul and Minneapolis, and Brother Louis De’Thomasis, FSC, Ph.D., president.

And in recognition of the contributions of Saint Mary’s University, Nov. 20 was officially proclaimed Saint Mary’s University of Minnesota’s Twin Cities Campus Day for the state of Minnesota, the city of Minneapolis, the city of Saint Paul, and the city of Rochester (where the Twin Cities Campus has an extension center).

During the first portion of the ceremony, the Lasallian Community Leadership Award was presented to Hallie B. Hendrieth-Smith, who has made tremendous contributions to the Minneapolis Public Schools, and devoted a lifetime of service to advancing educational opportunities for young people.

The Stephen Kieselhorst, Jr. Memorial Scholarship was introduced in honor of Counseling and Psychological Services student, Steve Kieselhorst, who died in 1994 at the age of 34 from Hodgkin’s Disease. Family and friends created the Kieselhorst Foundation to fund textbooks for three Counseling and Psychological Services students each year at Saint Mary’s. A plaque memorializing Steve and the scholarship was placed in the student lounge of LaSalle Hall.

Dr. Daniel Maloney, Twin Cities Campus chief operating officer, said Saint Mary’s University truly “serves the Twin Cities metro region and beyond. From our Twin Cities Campus, Saint Mary’s offers programs in 32 public schools, two Catholic schools, six corporate centers, and administers programs offered at its Rochester Center and in Wisconsin school districts, as well as a doctoral program on the university’s Winona Campus. We also maintain clinical training sites in some 15 health-care facilities for our nurse anesthesia degree program, and nearly 30 practicum sites with providers of counseling and psychological services.

“To continue to define ourselves strictly as the ‘Minneapolis Campus’ no longer fits who we have grown to be since our programs first were brought to the Minneapolis area in the late 1960s,” Maloney continued. “From that time to the mid-1980s, only a handful of students were ever enrolled in our programs at a given time. The Twin Cities Campus of Saint Mary’s University now serves approximately 3,000 degree-seeking adult learners. Sixteen degree programs include bachelor’s, master’s, and post-master’s degree licensure programs, and the doctorate in education leadership. We offer specialized computer training and education, consultation and education for professionals to work in the global community, and training in a variety of other professional fields. More than 2,000 non-degree seeking students take part in these offerings.”

“Over the past two years,” Brother Louis said, “we have made commitments to better serve the working adults who are our primary student body. We purchased the 2500 Park Avenue facility (dedicated as La Salle Hall). We completely renovated the facility and added instructional and specialized classrooms and laboratories. Our newest Park Avenue facility (adjacent to La Salle Hall) is named Martin de Porres Hall after the Church’s first saint of African descent.

“We feel the naming of our facilities honors our university’s mission, our history, our traditions and the reality of our presence in the Twin Cities.”
Ron Bosrock had shopped his concept for a center of global studies to at least two schools, but the chemistry wasn’t quite right.

Then a friend advised him to take his idea to Brother Louis DeThomasas, president of Saint Mary’s University, and it was a breeze from there. It took the two men just two meetings to shape the deal that created a center for global studies at the Saint Mary’s University Twin Cities Campus.

“It was a fit,” recalls Brother Louis. “I said, ‘Let’s go.’”

Last year, Brother Louis worked Bosrock’s idea firmly into his mission for the school, an expansive vision that includes bettering the lives of people in some of the world’s hottest spots. Now the center, called the Institute for Global Expansion, has opened its doors as a repository of consulting services, academic courses, research and forums — mostly on international business and economics abroad.

The bond forged so quickly by Bosrock and Brother Louis isn’t surprising, given their backgrounds.

Richard Bohr, director of Asian Studies at the College of St. Benedict and St. John’s University, likes Bosrock’s idea because it blends practical experience from the trenches of business with academic expertise, rather than tilting heavily to one or the other.

“I’ve followed his plans for some time,” says Bohr. “They meet a real need. As companies become more and more involved in international business, the need for increasingly sophisticated research, analysis and strategy-making grows.”

Brother Louis, president of Saint Mary’s since 1984, brings a strong business orientation and a worldwide network of the Roman Catholic Church — 7,000 religious brothers of the De La Salle Christian Brothers order, stationed in 70 countries — to the partnership.

“Faith without finance is foolish,” he declares.

Bosrock contributes more than 30 years at H.B. Fuller, Arthur Andersen and other companies, plus his own entrepreneurial ventures. He has done much of his work abroad, always in for-profit ventures. Now Bosrock seeks success as an entrepreneur in the non-profit sector.

“This is a risk for both of us,” Bosrock says.

Part of the risk, Brother Louis explains, is that the success of the center hinges on acceptance of free flows of trade, investment and ideas across borders.

But he fears that world events, such as terrorism, tend to make Americans withdraw from cultural and economic interaction.

“The world needs America to be involved,” he says.

“Isolationism, not only in economics, but in the minds and imaginations of business people and politicians, is a formula for an unsuccessful future.”

Looking beyond such thinking, the institute has established a Certificate of International Business program — 36 hours of courses covering finance, ethics and other business topics from a global perspective. The curriculum is designed for nontraditional students, such as business executives and managers seeking a better grounding in such fields.
In April, the center and state trade officials co-sponsored forums held in St. Paul on the influence of media coverage on the global economy, and on international management.

This year, the Kellogg Foundation awarded the institute a $25,000 grant to study issues involved in attracting investment to East African lands. Two years ago, Saint Mary’s and the Christian Brothers opened a campus for East Africans at Tangaza College in Nairobi; currently 200 students are working toward education degrees there. This year, Bosrock visited the campus to discuss possible programs with Saint Mary’s officials there.

Says Brother Louis: “Just speaking with our Brothers there since the embassy bombings, we have committed ourselves even more to the necessity of educating East Africans in the basic democratic and moral principles that have benefited American society. Some people might say, ‘Pack up and get home,’ but we said, ‘No, this is more of a reason to be there.’”

Brother Louis has written 11 books and monographs that bridge the gap between secular and religious life. The most popular of them — “Paradigms and Parables: The Ten Commandments for Ethics in Business” — came out three years ago with University of Minnesota professor Dr. William Ammentorp as a co-author.

Brother Louis is a director of Galaxy Funds, a $16 billion mutual fund family, and was a chairman of Bright Day Travel, a national travel agency based near San Francisco.

Saint Mary’s moved its Twin Cities Campus to 2500 Park Avenue South in Minneapolis shortly after Brother Louis arrived. The school has greatly expanded its activities under his leadership.

A need for speed

Dean of Students Chris Kendall finds being behind the wheel of a race car quite relaxing

He’s almost like a character straight out of a comic book — a mild-mannered reporter by day, defender of truth, justice and the American way by night.

OK, so Chris Kendall ’79 is no Superman, but the Saint Mary’s University dean of students does have a rather interesting alter-ego.

Most know Kendall as the Clark Kent-type — a hard-working individual known for his unique attire of Grateful Dead ties and white tennis shoes and his impressive ability to keep the Saint Mary’s student body in line.

And that’s no easy task.

In fact, the stress of being responsible for more than 1,450 students could be enough to cause premature aging.

So what does Kendall do to unwind?

Watch a little television? Not a chance.

Curl up and read a good book? Get real.

When it’s time for relaxing, Kendall tosses his tie-dyed ties and dress shirts in the closet and pulls out… his hang glider.

No, scratch that, the wind wasn’t right.

He hops in the cockpit of his two-seater plane… no, sold that.

He straps on the parachute and heads up to 15,000 feet… been there, done that.

“My interests have always revolved around things that fly and things that go fast,” admitted Kendall. “I’ve flown hang gliders for 23 years, airplanes for eight years and model airplanes for as long as I can remember.

“People joke that I have a death wish. Believe me, my wish is for life.”

Nowadays, Kendall’s “down time” is spent behind the wheel of a Formula-V race car.

“There’s something about being behind the wheel of a race car — it’s hard to describe,” explained Kendall, who just completed his first... full season of racing in October. “I’ve hang-glided and I’ve parachuted. And those were pretty incredible experiences, but driving a race car, you get that same rush of adrenaline — but it lasts so much longer.”

For those not familiar with auto racing, a Formula-V car is an open-wheel car with a modified Volkswagen engine. In layman’s terms, it’s a drastically scaled-down Indy car.

“I had spent a number of years working at the (race) tracks — working registration for races, working as a flagman in the corners . . .” Kendall said. “And the closer I got to the track, the more I wanted to be on it.

“I always liked the V races, and, having owned Volkswagen buses and Beetles, I was fairly familiar with the engines,” Kendall added. “Plus, the speed and dollar consumption (of the Formula-V) seemed to be of human proportion for a 40-year-old father of three.”

Once the racing bug bit, there was no turning back.

Kendall rented a car for the driver’s school at Road America in Elkhart Lake, Wis. (which he passed with flying colors). He competed in three races in 1997, before teaming up with his father, George, buying his own car and forming Kestral Racing.

“Racing roots run deep through my family,” Kendall said. “My earliest memories are of my mom and dad at the race track in San Diego (Kendall’s hometown). My dad was racing and my mom was the great organizer working race administration. Now, 40 years later, the only thing that has changed is my dad is the crew chief and I’m driving the race car.”

And it’s that family bond — along with that need for speed, of course — that makes racing so appealing to Kendall.

“The work I do at Saint Mary’s is adventurous, to say the least,” Kendall said with a smile. “There are times this job can really make my heart race. But, it’s also the kind of job that would chew me up if I didn’t have a separate life away from campus.”

“I have a picture on my office wall of me in my race car,” Kendall added. “That picture gets me through the tough days — and reminds me of all the things I have to be thankful for.”

Someday, I hope to be crew chief for my kids.”

Until then, however, Kendall will continue to use his high-octane “hobby” as a way to keep him focused when he has to return to the real world as SMU’s dean of students.

“It’s a tight squeeze as Chris Kendall, SMU’s dean of students, gets himself all strapped into his Formula-V race car.
If you have “stopped by” Saint Mary’s web site in recent days you certainly are not alone. The Saint Mary’s site receives about 300 visits a day, 9,000 visits per month and over 90,000 visits per year. And as more and more people get linked to the internet, we expect that number to jump by leaps and bounds.

If you haven’t visited your alma mater’s site in a while, you should. There are a few updates that will make your surf a smooth one. First, the e-mail directory (one of the most popular links on the site) is now searchable. You have the option of scrolling through a decade to look for long-lost classmates, or if you already know the name, you can type it in and get their address immediately. Keep in mind, however, that the e-mail directory lists only those alums who have voluntarily sent us their e-mail addresses to be posted. The directory is not a repository of all e-mail addresses of all alums. So if you have an e-mail address that you want posted, just send it to bconover@smumn.edu. It’s a great way to connect with your friends.

Second, the Barnes and Noble bookstore site is now up and running. You can visit the bookstore by clicking General Information, then scrolling to the bottom of the page, and clicking on University Bookstore. Alums may be interested in all the SMU memorabilia for sale. In the near future, the bookstore will offer an “official” line of SMU clothing.

The “Campus Notes” faculty/staff newsletter is now available in an easy-to-use format on the web site as well. Its appearance is very similar to the e-mail version now being distributed to all faculty/staff on campus; the difference is that each headline listed at the top of the message is directly linked to its corresponding story. Readers can browse the headlines, click on one and go right to the story, instead of scrolling through the entire text file. “Campus Notes” can be accessed by going to the bottom of the SMU main web page (www.smumn.edu) or by going directly to (www.smumn.edu/general/notes/notes2.html).

Useful facts and figures are now available from the 1998 “Fact Sheet.” Click on it from the bottom of the main page, or from within General Information.

We are constantly updating the pages; a lot happens at Saint Mary’s and just keeping the calendars, performance and athletic schedules current seems like a full-time job. So if you are interested in seeing what’s happening and when, just stop by the site.

One of most pleasing aspects of Saint Mary’s on-line presence is our increased exposure to international and non-traditional students. Every week a student from some distant country e-mails to inquire about admission. In the last month alone, we received information requests from China, Malaysia, Indonesia, India and Switzerland. We expect international enrollment to increase as a result.

Finally, you are encouraged to upgrade your browser software. The Saint Mary’s web site is best viewed with the most up-to-date browsers: any version of 4.x Netscape Navigator or Internet Explorer. The upgrades are free and easy to get right off the web. Just point your current browser to (http://www.netscape.com) for Navigator and (http://www.microsoft.com) for Internet Explorer. The sites are easy to navigate; just follow the download directions. It’s really very easy to do, and it makes viewing the Saint Mary’s site that much better!

From the webmaster:
SMU’s web site has really become alumni-friendly

A new-and-improved alumni section allows alums to search for e-mail addresses of fellow alums.

Miss America Pageant 101
Patzner is 3rd straight to qualify for prestigious event

It’s not among the 46 majors currently offered at Saint Mary’s University, but after qualifying three straight Miss America contestants in the last three years, Brother President Louis De’Thomasis might want to consider adding “Miss America Pageant 101” to the curriculum.

Jill Patzner ’98 followed in the footsteps of past alums Jennifer Ostergaard ’97 and Sherry Johnson ’96, competing in the Miss America Pageant this past September.

“I felt very fortunate to have the opportunity not only to represent my home state of Wisconsin, but also to represent Saint Mary’s University — a place where I spent four years of my life, a place where I made a lot of friends, and an institution that helped refine a lot of the values I already had,” said Patzner. “I really went into the pageant without too many expectations — I planned on rolling with the punches, so to speak.

“Once I got to the pageant, I found myself pretty relaxed and had a lot of fun.”

Now, however, the “fun” is over — and it’s time for Patzner to get down to some serious work.

“Once I was chosen as Miss Wisconsin, I spent most of the summer months just preparing for the Miss America Pageant,” explained Patzner. “I didn’t have any time to work on my community service project — which is the main reason I became involved in the pageant in the first place.”

Patzner’s platform, “Environment 2000: A Natural Stewardship,” deals with trying to change the approach to the environmental movement — to recognize the importance of our natural resources.

Patzner wasn’t selected among the top 10 finalists, but she didn’t leave Atlantic City, N.J., empty-handed, either. She was the recipient of the Miss America Scholar Award, a $5,000 scholarship from the Miss America Foundation honoring the best academic record of all 51 contestants.

And it’s the academics that make this Saint Mary’s University “trifecta” so special.

Patzner graduated from SMU summa cum laude with a degree in environmental biology. Patzner — who dreams of practicing international environmental law — was accepted to law school at the University of Minnesota and the University of Wisconsin-Madison, but has delayed her entrance until her Miss Wisconsin responsibilities are completed.

Her predecessors are also proving there’s more to the Miss America Pageant than beauty.

Johnson — whose platform, “I Put People First,” helped increase awareness of people with disabilities — is currently attending law school and is noted as a gifted inspirational speaker, while Ostergaard — whose platform against child abuse, “Be a Voice for a Child,” earned her the prestigious $10,000 Quality of Life Scholarship — is a graduate student in developmental psychology planning on earning a Ph.D.

“It’s hard to say that Saint Mary’s was the sole reason three straight graduates competed at the Miss America Pageant — but it certainly had something to do with it,” said Patzner. “Saint Mary’s is a real, down-to-earth, genuine institution. There’s no doubt the values and beliefs that I have today were solidified during my four years at Saint Mary’s.”
Homecoming is highlight of busy summer months on the Winona Campus
Every year in early May, another class of seniors is graduated and becomes Saint Mary’s University alumni. In the old days, that meant the Terrace Heights campus began a summer hibernation. Increasingly, over the past 14 years, Saint Mary’s merely shifts gears into its summer conference center mode. It’s a different scene with a different cast, but in many ways SMU is just as busy now in summer as during school.

When most people think of homecoming, they think cold fall weather, football games and formal dances; however, homecoming at Saint Mary’s is a whole different ballgame.

“Homecoming at Saint Mary’s is a time for old friends and their families to get together and see the new and exciting things going on around campus,” said Rebecca Satka, assistant vice president for university relations. “Certainly, our Winona Campus is a beautiful and restful place that triggers memories around every corner and down every hall. If you haven’t been back within the last five years, you are in for a very pleasant surprise.

“The campus has been greatly enhanced with the addition of an incredible recreation center, new and refurbished residence halls and academic buildings, and a technology center and plaza, just to name a few,” Satka continued. “Our staff and the National Alumni Board truly roll out the red carpet to provide entertainment for everyone,” as well as leaving time available for old friends to just sit and chat.

And, believe it or not, Homecoming isn’t just an anniversary-year celebration.

Sure, anniversary years are always highlighted, but Homecoming has something for everyone — and all classes are welcome and encouraged to join in the fun. Homecoming weekend has a variety of events for everyone to enjoy. Adults and children are both “guaranteed” to have a good time! The weekend includes activities such as a 5k run/walk through the beautiful bluffs, Mississippi river boat tours, an alumni picnic, campus tours, and various children’s activities. A 50-year-plus anniversary dinner is also held, as well as the alumni awards reception in the fieldhouse followed by a dinner in the Toner Student Center dining room.

But let’s face it, in today’s busy world, a golf outing, picnic, and awards reception (no matter how fabulous) is not what draws people back to this beautiful 450-acre campus nestled in the bluffs of Winona.

“Saint Mary’s University is a touchstone in all of our lives,” Satka said. “It is a bond we share with other alumni, current students, faculty and staff that reaches into the deeper realms of our lives. It is that unexplainable glue that connects the class of 1999 to the class of 1939.”

For Mary Lentz Hofschulte ’75, the decision to come back to Saint Mary’s for Homecoming is one based on family ties.

“Both my husband’s father and my father graduated from Saint Mary’s, and my husband and I met during our years at Saint Mary’s,” Hofschulte said. “It’s great to walk down the halls and see pictures of my father on the wall. My father is 83 years old and he still comes back for Homecoming every year. Homecoming brings back that coming home feeling. It’s great to see old friends and professors, too. Homecoming ties in that time of life during college when you go through so many changes and so much growth, with the family life we have now.”

And that, according to Satka, is really what Homecoming is all about.

“Homecoming keeps people from having to let go of one of the most memorable times of their life. It also provides the chance for those who have let go to reconnect for a lifetime,” she said. “It’s a time for reminiscing about living in the dorms, barely making curfew, cramming all night for exams, and that ‘terrible’ cafeteria food. It’s the stories of how we learned to live in close quarters with people we liked and people we didn’t, being there for our friends, having our hearts broken and having them soar, being exposed to new ideas and old ones we had never heard of.

“This is the place where most of us became independent and gained self-confidence, where faculty and staff consistently reinforced our Christian values and ethics. Saint Mary’s was and is that safe haven where for one short weekend our spirits are young and nothing is impossible.”

Alumni Appreciation Award

Dr. Samuel J. Cascio ‘48 was honored with the Saint Mary’s University Alumni Appreciation Award. Since his first contact with the Christian Brothers, Dr. Cascio has remained dedicated to the Lasallian mission of Saint Mary’s University, its students and alumni. Dr. Cascio earned his D.D.S. from Loyola University School of Dentistry, and continues to hold leadership roles in dental, educational, and civic organizations. He was a member of the SMU board of trustees from 1974-1984, as well as the chair of the Chicago-area capital campaign from 1981-1983. Dr. Cascio continues to be involved in many areas of the Saint Mary’s community including fund raising, recruiting, public relations and alumni projects. Dr. Cascio is a Chicago native who divides his time between North Barrington, Ill. and Marco Island, Fla.

WE’RE ROLLING OUT THE RED CARPET

Take advantage of a wonderful opportunity to rediscover the spirit of Saint Mary’s University. Encourage former classmates to join you for this fun-filled memorable weekend. Special emphasis is always given to anniversary classes (this year ending in 4 or 9), however, Homecoming is for everyone and we encourage all to attend.

Highlights of the weekend are listed below.

And as you can see, the weekend is a busy one. You won’t want to miss any of Homecoming 1999!

Look in the mail for a special invitation which will include your registration form, specific times for activities, dorm and meal prices, and other important information for Homecoming ’99. If you prefer to stay at one of the local hotels, please call early for reservations — rooms fill fast!

Hope to see you in June!

Sincerely,
The Homecoming Committee

The Religious Service Award for 1999 will be presented during the evening Mass in Saint Thomas More Chapel.

RECEPTION & AWARDS, Saturday, June 19
An hors d’oeuvres reception will follow Mass. SMU’s annual alumni awards will be given out at this time.
FOR YOUR INFORMATION

Housing
Make the most of your reunion by staying right on campus — so you don’t miss a thing! The Pines is reserved for the classes of the ’30s and ’40s.

Babysitters
If you are planning to bring children to Homecoming, please bring a babysitter with whom your children are familiar. SMU can no longer legally provide babysitters.

Additional information
Call the alumni office at 1-800-635-5987, Ext. 1499.

PRESIDENTIAL DINNER, Saturday, June 19
This sit-down, served dinner takes the place of the traditional awards dinner. (Reminder: awards will be presented at the hors d’oeuvres reception so you may join us for awards and have dinner with us or on your own as you prefer.)

HOMECOMING DANCE, Saturday, June 19
Dance the night away and enjoy refreshments with your classmates while a local DJ plays a variety of music.

ALUMNI BRUNCH, Sunday, June 20
Cap off the weekend with a brunch Sunday morning following Mass. This is a great time to say your farewells until you see one another at another alumni event.

OTHER EVENTS & ACTIVITIES
Enjoy a piano sing-along, educational seminars, continental breakfasts, 5k run, pontoon boat rides, the facilities in the Gostomski Fieldhouse (including the pool and ice rink), campus tours, and much, much more!

Rebecca Satka ’75
assistant vice president for university relations

The Homecoming Awards Dinner has been revised into two separate events — the awards will be presented at a cocktail reception in the Gostomski Fieldhouse, while the sit-down, Presidential Dinner will follow in the dining room of the Toner Student Center Lounge.

The summer months may be quiet and relaxing for some people, but for Darlene Paulson, the conference center director, the summer months are the busiest of the year.

The summer session starts the day after graduation and continues until the school year begins again in August. This past summer there were 62 different groups on campus and an estimated 8,000 guests for a total of 11,455 “bed nights” (overnight stays). According to Paulson, “at least 75% of the programs are on-campus or campus-sponsored programs.” For example, the Philanthropy and Development graduate program includes 75 guests for 15 nights, and the Lasallian Collegians service group constitutes 75 guests for three nights. Other campus programs include graduate program summer sessions and the new core program, which allows students to complete required courses during the summer. Planning for the summer is a yearlong process. Paulson works with the facilitators of the different conference groups to coordinate such details as housing, meals, transportation, classroom, library and computer lab availability, bookstore hours, linens, and any other amenities that the group may need.

During the summer months, Paulson has a staff of about 12 students to help her coordinate the many conference groups. The students are responsible for working the switchboard and information desk, making beds, and acting as conference coordinators. The job of conference coordinator involves meeting with the director of the conference, setting up and inspecting all housing and other facilities, and registering the group. The student is also on call while the group is here to answer any questions and provide any additional services. Student workers learn a lot more than just how to make beds; Paulson said, “I need to give them more than just work to do. I want to give them skills they can use for the rest of their lives.”

“Allowing conferences and other groups to use the Saint Mary’s facilities is good exposure for the university,” said Paulson. “Opening the campus up for summer programs is a great way to get the name of Saint Mary’s out in the public.” By hosting different groups during the summer, Saint Mary’s not only makes use of the facilities and ensures employment for staff and students, but also generates revenue to be used in the general fund, exposes young people to the university, and serves Saint Mary’s groups and the larger community.

Religious Service Award

Dennis L. Nigon ’68 was honored with the Saint Mary’s University Religious Service Award. For the past 30 years Nigon has been an outstanding educator at Lourdes High School in Rochester, Minn. He has been involved in the educational ministry of the Church for his entire professional life. Nigon has supported the spiritual development of young people while acting as teacher, coach, dean of students, and in his present position as principal since 1988 of Lourdes High School. Nigon, a native of Rochester, received a Master of Arts degree in Educational Administration from Saint Mary’s in 1987.
Paulson said that although alumni are welcome back to visit at any time, they should consider using the facilities at Saint Mary’s especially if they belong to a professional organization.

During the summer months at Saint Mary’s there are more athletes on campus than there are students during the school year. According to Mike Lester, athletic camps coordinator, there are about 2,200 youth between the ages of 6 and 18 that take advantage of the many athletic camps and clinics.

“The growth of our summer camps has been phenomenal,” admitted Lester, noting that during the first year, roughly 900 youth and high school-aged athletes took part in SMU’s summer camps, compared to the more than 2,200 that participated in 1998. “When you consider that our participation level has grown 250 percent in four years, that’s incredible.”

The Saint Mary’s hockey camp has seen the most

Robert Gunderson ’53 was inducted into the Sports Hall of Fame for his achievements in several sports at Saint Mary’s. A Chicago native currently living in Shelton, Wash., Gunderson earned all-conference honors in both baseball and football in 1952 and 1953. A four-year letterwinner in baseball and football, and also a two-year letterwinner in basketball, Gunderson was a member of Saint Mary’s MIAC championship baseball team in 1953 and participated in the National Catholic Invitational basketball tournament in New York in 1951 and 1952.

Heidi Campbell DeRousse ’88, owner of virtually every individual Saint Mary’s women’s soccer record, is the third woman inducted into the Sports Hall of Fame. During her four years as a member of the soccer team, DeRousse was a two-time All-MIAC selection (1985 and 1986), as well as a second-team All-West Region selection in 1986. A native of Palatine, Ill., and currently living in Lake Zurich, Ill., DeRousse owns SMU single-season records for goals (23), assists (22) and points (68), all set during the 1986 season. She also holds Saint Mary’s career records for assists (49) and points (173) and is second all-time in goals (62).
growth, from the 1995 four-week camp to today's seven-week endeavor that includes five weeks of boys camps and two weeks of girls camps — one week for girls ages 10-13 and another for high school-age girls.

“The first year, we were extremely surprised and pleased with the turnout,” said Don Olson, SMU’s head hockey coach and athletic director, who also serves as the hockey camp director. “With the numbers we had that first year, we took a calculated risk by expanding the camp and the risk paid off.”

One of the major changes during the second year was the addition of a week specifically designed for high school-age girls. The camp filled quickly — and the interest in SMU’s summer hockey camps has just continued to grow.

“One of the major keys to our success has been our ability to attract an outstanding staff of coaches,” said Olson, who has had several NCAA Division I, III and high school coaches work his camps. “Our growth and overall success has been very overwhelming. It’s hard to believe that in a span of four years our camp has grown to what it is today.”

The hockey camps aren’t the only sports ticket in town during the summer months, either.
Boys and girls basketball, soccer and volleyball camps — led by Saint Mary’s coaches and athletes — run for one week each, and, like the hockey camps, have seen their attendance skyrocket over the past few years. The SMU campus also houses a week of swim camp, as well as a cheerleading camp.

In addition to the camps and clinics, Saint Mary’s hosts a summer basketball league, which includes 80 teams playing four nights a week for six weeks.

So how does Saint Mary’s do it? How can the school accommodate more than 2,200 individuals during a three-month time frame? Hard work — and a very dedicated group of individuals.

“Without the untiring work of several campus groups, these events would not be possible,” explained Lester. “The coaching staffs and their support staffs do a tremendous job of running their specific camps, but they don’t do it alone. There are so many people behind the scenes that really make these camps successful.

“Darlene Paulson and her conference center staff do a tremendous job in preparing the residence halls for use, and assisting with the check-in and check-out of all campus visitors,” Lester continued. “The maintenance and custodial staffs do an excellent job of maintaining the residence halls and facilities, as well as working their schedules to accommodate all of the events on campus.”

“Without these and other amazing groups, the Office of Special Programs and the summer sports camps could not have grown to the point they are today.”

In order to keep all of the facilities on campus in good shape, many buildings are renovated or upgraded every year. Cindy Marek, vice president for financial affairs, said, “We have good facilities but we need to keep them in good shape. Summer is the only time to really get that done.”

Many facilities were improved this past summer. Some buildings only required minor touch-ups while others, such as St. Joseph’s Hall, required major remodeling. St. Joe’s was last remodeled in the 1940s and ’50s; consequently, the building was completely shut down this summer and underwent major construction. The majority of the work was done on the residence section of the building, and the classrooms, garage and gym received minor upgrades. A new entryway was constructed, an elevator was built, and the dorm rooms were completely remodeled to include new doors, cabinets, sinks, paint, and wiring.

According to Marek, “slight remodeling was also done to the old and new villages, the Toner Student Center, the Information Desk and the Chemistry Department.” Several of the villages required interior and exterior renovations. The exteriors of many villages were touched up and all of the villages now have air conditioning and cable. The Toner Student Center gained an elevator that runs from the basement up to the cafeteria, the Information Desk received all-new counters and cabinets, while the Chemistry Department received new workstations in some of the labs.

In addition to the renovation of several facilities, a new parking lot was built that doubles as an outdoor basketball court, and landscaping was done throughout much of the campus.

Often the pounding of hammers, buzz of saws and rumble of trucks continues almost up to fall semester’s opening weekend... and it’s time for the campus’ “lifecycle” to begin all over again. ≠
It’s time for you to get involved

At the recent Chicago golf outing, a fellow alumnus came up to me to congratulate and thank the alumni board for its efforts in putting together a wonderful event. I explained to him that he had the Chicago Chapter and its golf committee to thank. Rich Reedy ’76 and Frank Howard ’76 put together one of the finest golf outings I have ever attended. After speaking with Rebecca Satka ’75 and members of the Saint Mary’s administration, I found out that the Twin Cities golf outing organized by the Twin Cities alumni chapter and chaired by Finbar Murphy ’92 was also a great day on the links.

Our active chapters and the university staff are doing a great job coordinating social functions for our alumni. This allows the National Alumni Board the opportunity to focus on advancing Saint Mary’s by strengthening the relationship between the alumni and the university in other arenas. We’re focusing our efforts on the following programs:

- Career Guidance. Alumni assist current students in providing guidance for their career development.
- Meet the Professionals Program. Alumni return to campus to participate in a panel discussion regarding their transition from student to professional and what their particular professions entail.
- Shadow Day. Alumni bring a student to work with them for a day so that the student can experience, first-hand, what a day in their future career will be like.
- Mentoring. Alumni are paired with students pursuing a career in the same field so that the student can have someone to talk with on an ongoing basis about career decisions.
- Summer jobs programs. We help recruit companies to provide part-time jobs for students.
- Children of alumni receptions. Assist the Admission Office with gatherings for recruitment of the children of our alumni.
- Nationwide receptions. Host receptions in various areas of the country so alumni and potential students can meet with university faculty and staff members.
- Homecoming. Help organize and plan the annual summer event.
- Annual alumni awards. Each year we select deserving recipients of the Distinguished Alumnus, Alumni Appreciation and Religious Service Awards, and select inductees to the Sports Hall of Fame. We are now examining our methods of increasing the database and selecting our recipients.
- Ambassadors of goodwill. We function as liaison between the university and her alumni to maintain and strengthen this very vital relationship.

I hope you will consider becoming involved in the National Alumni Board or joining/assisting one of our local chapters. I know you would find it to be a very rewarding experience.

If interested or if you have any suggestions, call Rebecca Satka at 1-800-635-5987, Ext. 1499 or me at 630-369-8049.

I hope to see you at upcoming alumni events, especially Homecoming, June 18-20, 1999!

Saint Mary’s University of Minnesota
Remember the days when your entire family got together for the holidays? Or how about those summer family reunions filled with aunts, uncles, nieces and nephews that you hadn’t seen for ages?

At Saint Mary’s, Homecoming isn’t the only time alums can get together. SMU sponsors several “family get-togethers” throughout the year — like the annual SMU outing at the Chicago Cubs game, or maybe a round of golf in the Twin Cities or Chicago area.

Wherever the setting, and whatever the occasion, it’s always a great feeling to get together with some of your SMU family members.

Men’s Soccer
MIAC: 5-4-1 (5th)
Overall: 11-5-1
Briefly: After posting back-to-back 10-win seasons in 1996 and 1997, the Cardinals did that one better in 1998, finishing the season 11-5-1. . . . Senior defender Alex Kugel earned his second All-MIAC honor, while also being named third-team West Region All-American. . . . Three SMU players finished in double figures in scoring, led by Tony Benson’s 18 points (8 goals, 2 assists), Brent Murphy (7 goals, 1 assist, 15 points) and Ben Bushman (3 goals, 4 assists, 10 points) were the others. . . . When the Cardinals tied Gustavus 1-1 on Oct. 17, it broke a string of 35 straight games without a tie, dating back to Oct. 12, 1996. . . . SMU trailed at halftime only twice all season — and lost both times.

Women’s Soccer
MIAC: 5-3-2 (6th)
Overall: 9-6-2
Briefly: For the 17th straight season, the Cardinals finished above .500. . . . Senior Jenny Paul and junior Courtney Hentges were named to the All-MIAC team, while Erin Gibson, Erin Elder and JoAnna Fitzhugh were honorable-mention selections. . . . Elder led the Cardinals in goals (11) and total points (26), while Fitzhugh (7 goals, 4 assists, 18 points) and Meredith Mufich (6 goals, 5 assists, 17 points) also finished the season in double figures. . . . Freshman goalie Colleen O’Hearn recorded six shutouts and posted an impressive 0.96 goals-against-average. . . . SMU held the lead at halftime in all nine of its victories and was 4-1-2 on its home field. . . . The Cardinals closed out the season winning three straight.

Volleyball
MIAC: 6-5 (7th)
Overall: 17-18
Briefly: SMU’s 6-5 conference record marked the first time since 1994 that the Cardinals finished the MIAC schedule with a winning record. . . . Sophomores Amanda Edmond and Shelley Haake were selected to the All-MIAC first team, while teammate Diane Wood was named to the second team. It was the second straight first-team honor for Edmond. . . . The Cardinals put together a season-high six-match winning streak during the middle of the season, but slumped to 4-11 in their last 15. . . . Wood led the team in kills (436), service aces (69) and digs (328), while Haake was the team-leader in attack percentage (.381) and Edmond led the team in kills/game (3.4). . . . Sophomore Amber Rajtora broke the 1,000-assist barrier this season, finishing with 1,038. . . . Ten of the Cardinals’ 17 wins came in the minimum three games, while SMU struggled to a 2-9 record in games that went the maximum five games.

Cross Country
Men’s MIAC Finish: 4th
Women’s MIAC Finish: 10th
Briefly: The Cardinals record- ed their highest MIAC finish in school history with their fourth-place showing. . . . Junior Rob Edwards earned his second All-MIAC honor, finishing 14th overall in an eight-kilometer time of 26:41. . . .
Senior Ami Kuisle led the Cardinal women at the MIAC Championships, clocking a five-kilometer time of 19:52 to place 56th... In the season-ending NCAA Regionals, junior Mark Bolster led the SMU charge, completing the course in 27:14, while Kuisle again paced the women with her time of 20:44.

Golf

Men’s MIAC Finish: 7th

Briefly: Freshman Tom Moore highlighted the Cardinals’ season with rounds of 78-81 during the MIAC Championships on the par-72 Bunker Hills Golf Course in Coon Rapids, Minn. Moore missed out on All-MIAC honors by two strokes, but lifted the Cardinals to a seventh-place showing. Moore finished with a team-leading 78.3 scoring average, while teammate Bryan Heim was a close second with an 80.6 average... On the women’s side, numbers posed the biggest problem for first-year head coach Tom Allen, who was unable to field a complete team for any of the Cardinals four fall matches. Freshman Staci Hemmelman was the only player to compete in every tournament.

Vizenor, Stevens join Cardinal staff

When Jesse Bauer took the opening face-off during the Saint Mary’s University women’s hockey team’s game against St. Cloud State, it not only kicked off the inaugural season of women’s varsity hockey at Saint Mary’s, but it also marked the collegiate beginning for head coach Jeff Vizenor.

Vizenor, who coached the St. Cloud Icebreakers — a combination of players from St. Cloud Tech, Apollo and Cathedral High Schools — to an 18-4 record in their inaugural season in 1997-98, assumes the responsibility of building the Cardinal women’s hockey program from the ground up. Saint Mary’s had a women’s club team for the past three years.

Vizenor, who has coached at the high school level at St. Cloud Tech and Mora, Minn., spent this past summer as the head coach for Team Minnesota AAA Select Girls’ Under 15 team.

“The opportunity to coach women’s hockey is appealing to me,” Vizenor said. “It’s a fast-growing sport that offers a speed and purity which the men’s game is currently lacking. I appreciate the women’s fresh energy, excitement and enthusiasm for the game of hockey.”

Vizenor earned his B.S. in social studies from St. Cloud State University. Along with his coaching duties at Saint Mary’s, Vizenor will also assume other administrative duties within the athletic department.

Also new to the women’s hockey staff is fellow Mora, Minn., native and recent Colby College graduate Ann Mortenson.

Mortenson graduated from Colby College with a B.A. in psychology and a minor in religious study. A four-year letterwinner on the Colby women’s hockey team, Mortenson was the team’s captain her senior season and also played on the 1997-98 ECAC all-star team, which took on the U.S. Women’s National team in a tune-up game for the 1998 Nagano Winter Olympics.

Women’s hockey isn’t the only varsity sport with a new face at the helm.

Zhawn Stevens, a former assistant coach at NCAA Division I University of Kansas, is the new head swimming and diving coach.

Stevens, a former All-American swimmer, replaces Dr. John Miller, who accepted a position as assistant professor in the physical education department at Western New Mexico State in Silver City, N.M.

During his years as an assistant at Kansas, Stevens recruited and coached an Olympian, two world-ranked athletes and four NCAA All-Americans. He has also worked extensively at the Jayhawk Training Camp as a coach and classroom instructor.

As a collegiate swimmer, Stevens was a five-time NCAA Division I All-American and an eight-time individual Big Eight Conference champion. He set two individual Big Eight records and holds four Kansas school records. He was named the Jayhawks’ most valuable swimmer for the 1992-93 season.

Stevens earned his B.A. in psychology from Kansas in 1994 and completed his master’s work in experimental sports psychology from Texas Christian University. Along with his coaching duties at Saint Mary’s, Stevens will oversee operation of the Jul Gernes Pool and teach.
Howard Smith is living in Muskego, Wis. and is enjoying his retirement.

Eugene P. Byron resides in Laguna Hills, Calif. and is retired from General Foods.

Horatio H. Krause, Ph.D. has received the 1998 Outstanding Chemist Award from the Central Ohio Section of the American Chemical Society. He had a 40-year career in chemical research at Battelle Memorial Institute in Columbus, Ohio.

Father Robert Botthof, O.P. has been appointed pastor of St. Vincent Ferrer Church in River Forest, Ill. after serving as associate pastor for the past three years. Fr. Botthof is the former president and principal of Fenwick High School and principal of the Oak Park and River Forest High School, both in Oak Park, Ill. He has two children and five grandchildren. John J. Forrest is retired from Amsted Industries as a National Sales Manager. He has nine children, 20 grandchildren and two great grandchildren. Lawrence E. Urbanski is enjoying his retirement in Hackensack, Minn. but, he says, he hasn’t learned to say “no” to various community and church programs that continue to keep him busy. Father Paul Holloran ‘69 lives in the same area as Larry and his wife, Joan. They enjoy his sermons and humor when he fills in at their church.

James A. Dolan is now retired and currently resides in Crestwood, Ill.

Maurice (Mickey) R. Flynn, even though he is retired, stays very busy working on revitalizing a parish library, doing home schooling and tutoring. Mickey is looking forward to attending the 45th class reunion in June of 1999 with a new heart. He is currently awaiting a heart transplant. Prayers are requested for a matching donor. Thomas J. Johnston is now retired from IBM and resides in Sanford, N.C. Father Louis Cook celebrated his 40th year of his ordination to the priesthood and his retirement with a Mass of Thanksgiving on June 28, 1998 in St. Charles, Minn. Father Jerome F. Verdick observed his 40th year as a priest in 1998 as well. He is presently on leave of absence from active ministry and resides in Alpha, Minn.

Patrick O’Halloran is living in Newport, Rhode Island and is now retired.

Thomas Sullivan was recently elected to the board of trustees for Moraine Valley Community College in Palos Hills, Ill. He celebrated 25 years of marriage in 1996 with his wife, Judy and his two children, Kelly and Patrick.

Their two children, Luke, 9, and Emily, 7, are acclimating well.

Katherine (Sheridan) Sula begins her second semester of teaching Electronic Prepress at Saint Mary’s University, and has joined SMU’s University Relations staff as senior graphic designer.

Biodiversity Leadership Award goes to Timothy Killeen ’76

Timothy J. Killeen ’76, a botanist and conservation biologist who has spent the last 15 years studying and conserving lowland tropical ecosystems in Bolivia, was one of six researchers from around the globe named winners of the 1998 Biodiversity Leadership Awards.

The aim of the awards — chosen in collaboration with 10 leading research institutions — is to encourage the identification, conservation and protection of what has been simply called the variety of life on the planet. It is diversity in and among species that allows populations of plants, insects, microbes and humans to survive.

Killeen, a native of Kansas City, Mo., is on the staff of the Missouri Botanical Garden, but he lives in Santa Cruz, Bolivia, where he is attached to a local university and conducts his research at Noel Kempff National Park, a protected area at the southern corner of Amazonia. There, in one of the most biologically diverse areas of South America, Killeen and his students use old-fashioned notebook-and-pencil, as well as modern satellite imagery to inventory and monitor biological changes in the park.
Brian Carey found paradise in Naples, Fla. He and his family moved to Naples in July 1998. They are proud owners of an ice cream and yogurt franchise called “Freshens.” Jeff Rivers is the sports copy editor at the “Minneapolis Star-Tribune.”

Ann O’Loughlin Nolan and her husband, John, opened their second restaurant in Homewood, Ill., also called Bogart’s Charhouse. Their family recently moved to Oregon due to John’s new position, however, Ann continues to oversee the restaurants back in Illinois. They have three children: Ryan, 5; Katie, 4; and Bridget, 1.

Let your fingers do the walking with the new SMU Alumni Directory

Soon, locating fellow alumni will be as easy as turning a page with the new Saint Mary’s University of Minnesota Alumni Directory.

A survey was already mailed to you; beginning in early 1999, representatives of Publishing Concepts Inc., will start phoning alumni for the verification phase of the alumni directory project.

Much of the information to be verified will go into the directory, specifically, current name, academic data, residence address and phone number, current occupation, and business address and phone number. The directory will sort the data by name in the alphabetical division, and by class year and geographical location in separate sections of the book. There will also be a special message from the Alumni Office included with photos of and information about the university. You may reserve a personal copy when Publishing Concepts phones.

McGee ’95 breaking prep hockey color barrier

Tony McGee ’95 remembers what it was like to be the only black player on a college hockey team in Minnesota a few years ago, how opponents would hurl racial epithets at him, trying to unnerv him.

“At first, when people called me n——, I wanted to fight,” McGee said. “As I got older, though, I learned to take their racism and use it in a positive way.

“If I hit them or something, I would spend two shifts in the penalty box, and what good does that do? In college, I learned to just score a goal on them and smile. One time, a guy said: ‘Why don’t you go play basketball,’ and I said, ‘I’ll just beat you at that, too.’ ”

This past fall, McGee, now 28, embarked on a new challenge as he became what is believed to be the first black high school hockey coach in Minnesota, taking over the Minneapolis Edison program.

In a state where high school hockey is king, with about 150 boys and 100 girls high school programs, only an estimated five percent of the players are black.

That puts McGee in a unique position.

“It is tremendous because now young black players in Minneapolis can look up at a coach, someone who has made it,” said John Bittner, the executive secretary of the Minnesota Hockey Coaches Association. “It’s garbage to think that this is a white kids’ sport and black kids can’t play it.”

McGee thinks he can help.

An All-Minnesota Intercollegiate Athletic Conference selection during his playing days at Saint Mary's, McGee played two seasons of semi-pro hockey in El Paso, Texas and Atlanta, before moving to Minneapolis to pursue a graduate degree in education at the University of Minnesota.

“It’s a significant jump for the community that an African-American can be a head coach in a predominantly white sport,” McGee said. “I want to see more kids from disadvantaged backgrounds play hockey, regardless of race because it is such a great game.

“Something has to be done to make hockey available to everyone.”

McGee, who spent his summer putting together his coaching staff and preparing for his first season behind the bench, admits that his approach to coaching is very similar to the one he had as a player.

“I wasn’t always the biggest kid on the ice, but I played hard and had fun,” he said. “I want players who love to play hockey and want to get everything out of their talent.”

Mike Johanns ’71 triumphs as governor of Nebraska

Mike Johanns ’71 has finally reached the light at the end of the tunnel.

Johanns rode his conservative agenda of less government and lower taxes to the first Republican gubernatorial triumph in Nebraska in 12 years.

The Nov. 3 victory completed a remarkable three-year campaign that will transport Johanns four blocks from the mayor’s office in Lincoln to the governor’s office in the State Capitol in January.

“It’s been a long campaign,” Johanns said at his victory celebration. “It’s great, it’s great. It’s good to have the campaign over, (now) I’m ready to get to work.”

Johanns, who was a communications major at Saint Mary’s and went on to earn a law degree at Creighton University, promises to be as open as Nebraska’s governor as he was as Lincoln’s mayor.

“One thing I don’t want to lose is the direct contact with citizens,” said Johanns, a native of Osage, Iowa. “I really do believe in accountability in government. As mayor, I’ve endeavored to own up to the bad things as well as the good things.

“I will be open and accessible, and I will demand excellence,” Johanns added. “This isn’t a job as far as I’m concerned, it’s a mission.

“Serving people through government in my judgment is a big deal.”

Help Saint Mary’s honor its distinguished alums

Each year, the National Alumni Association of Saint Mary’s University bestows awards on deserving alums. The Distinguished Alumnus, Alumni Appreciation, Sports Hall of Fame and Religious Service awards are the major awards voted on each year by the National Alumni Board. Nominations for these awards come from alumni, administrators and/or faculty members. We need your help in finding nominations for the year 2000. Call the alumni office at 800-635-5987, Ext. 1499 and request a nomination form. The form describes the criteria for each award and provides ample space for you to describe your nominee’s accomplishments.

The codicil, as you probably know, is an appendage to a will that adds to or modifies something in the will. For example, if you want to change the personal representative named in your will, you can do so with a codicil. If you want to add the name of someone to receive a bequest, you can use a codicil. If you want to delete the name of someone, a codicil will work fine.

Codicils are effective
They do the job. They are just as legal and binding as the main document. Some of our friends may want to add Saint Mary’s University to their wills and others may want to adjust the amount they had previously decided to give. In either case, this can be done effectively through a codicil.

Codicils are inexpensive
You would probably be surprised to learn the relatively low cost of a codicil. It is considerably less than the expense of drafting an entire will. A quick call to your attorney will tell you just how reasonable this service is compared to other estate planning documents.

Codicils are easy
The codicil presents an easy way for our friends to include Saint Mary’s University in their estate plans. It’s not necessary to go through the time and expense of redoing the entire will; all it takes is the creation of a brief legal document that is then stored in a safe place with the will.

If you would like more information about wills and codicils and how you can include Saint Mary’s University of Minnesota in your estate plans, contact Stacey Vanden Heuvel, director of gift planning, at (800) 635-5987, ext. 1785. Or you can use the handy response form below.

You should consult your attorney about the applicability to your own situation for the legal principles printed above.
